

The Future of the Everywhere Workplace in the U.S.

Employees have adapted to remote work, and they like it!

63%

of employees would choose the ability to work remotely over getting a promotion.

48%

of employees would take a pay cut in exchange for being able to work remotely.

Do the benefits outweigh the concerns?

Top benefits included...

47% A flexible work schedule

43% Less commute stress

40% Saving money

Less physical movement in the day 40%

lack of interaction with colleagues; screen fatigue 39%

Lack of effective collaboration/communication 31%

Top concerns included...

50%

of employees have worn pajama pants on a video conference call.

31%

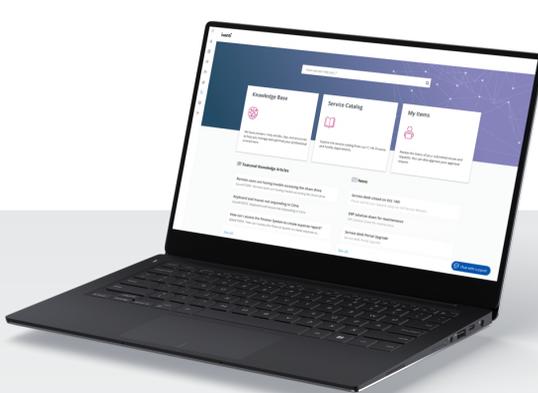

have gone to the bathroom or taken a shower during a conference call.

20%

admit to having been on a video call without pants on at all!

Employee behavior has become more relaxed

The Everywhere Workplace is here to stay!
That's a good thing for employees.

It's up to organizations to make securing devices and data a top priority while helping employees stay connected, engaged and productive.

Contact us

The findings in the Everywhere Workplace report are based on a survey conducted by Ivanti in May 2021. The survey took place online and used a nationally representative sample of 925 people over 18 working remotely in the U.S. Copyright © 2021, Ivanti. All rights reserved. IVI-2581 CS/JD